What to expect:

Platform & Infrastructure:
• Design, configure, and operate cloud infrastructure (Azure, AWS).
• Deploy and manage data-oriented and backend applications on Kubernetes.
• Build scalable, sustainable enterprise solutions for software development and data processing.
• Implement Infrastructure as Code using Terraform, Crossplane, or similar tools.

CI/CD & Developer Experience
• Develop and maintain robust CI services using tools like Gerrit, Jenkins, Artifactory, SonarQube, and in-house systems.
• Support GitOps workflows using tools such as FluxCD or ArgoCD.
• Provide expert-level support to internal users and ensure high availability of CI/CD systems.
• Create clear documentation and self-service capabilities for engineering teams.

Data Platform Engineering
• Contribute to the architecture and foundation of Volvo's next-generation data platform.

What you bring along:

- Master's degree in Computer Science, Computer Engineering, or equivalent.
- Strong experience with cloud infrastructure (Azure, AWS, or equivalent).
- Expertise in Python and/or C/C++.
- Experience with CI/CD tools and software development workflows.
- Hands-on experience with Kubernetes and Docker.
- Solid understanding of DevOps practices and GitOps methodologies.
- Advanced English skills

• Work with PaaS technologies such as Databricks and Snowflake.
• Support big-data workloads, event streaming (Kafka, MQTT), and large-scale processing frameworks (Spark, Ray).
• Ensure secure, reliable, and compliant data access and governance.

Collaboration & Operations
• Work closely with multiple teams across the organization to gather requirements and ensure seamless platform operations.
• Troubleshoot issues across the entire stack — from cloud infrastructure to compilation errors.
• Monitor system performance using tools like Prometheus, Grafana, Splunk, and PagerDuty.
